A major extension was required to the old Bakery Building, but bun production had to be maintained at all times to guarantee uninterrupted supplies to the state's McDonalds Restaurants. This was successfully achieved by dividing the project into three stages: construction of a new Bakery building and new loading docks, after commissioning of the new oven, spiral cooler and pan stacker, the old bakery was closed down and stripped out in preparation for new floor finishes, new roofing, ceiling, services and new equipment. Stage three was the completion of a new Office Building. During the 12 month construction period only one day's production was lost... when a service line was disturbed by earth moving machinery.
